The Vericant Spoken English Evaluation (SEE) is an evaluation of English language proficiency in the Vericant video interview. Beyond just merely a score of technical language ability, the SEE is a comprehensive assessment of the grasp and mastery of English as a second language for the purposes of communication, a linguistic skill set crucial to any student entering a foreign school environment. For Vericant partner schools, the SEE score allows admissions staff a quick look at applicants' language abilities so they can focus on students that fit their admissions criteria. Schools that have ESL programs will find the SEE score useful in placing admits. For students, the SEE score is a report of their performance during the Vericant video interview, helping them to make more informed decisions in applying to best-fit schools.

The five components of the Vericant SEE Score:

	Range	Accuracy	Fluency	Interaction	Coherence
High Score	Able to accurately and appropriately use a wide variety of words and phrases to discuss familiar or unfamiliar and simple and complex topics.	Mastery of complex and complete sentence structures, tenses, even in a prolonged discussion of complex topics. Speaks in complete sentences rather than fragments.	Smoothly, spontaneously, continuously flowing speech with clear pronunciation, intonation, and stress.	Can converse easily and at length without prompting from interviewer, understanding and able to respond to all questions and knowing when to take their turn.	Speaks in a clear, logical, detailed, and structured way about more complex topics - main points are immediately clear and statements are easy to follow.
Low Score	Limited to simple, superficial discussions of every day topics and likes/dislikes, using generic, repetitive, or memorized descriptors. Sometimes translates from Chinese phrases not appropriate to the context.	Persistent mistakes in pronouns, prepositions, subject-verb agreement, while relying primarily on the present tense and simple sentence structures or sentence fragments.	Halting, struggling, extremely slow speech, with isolated phrases and many noticeable pauses, and thick accents or unclear pronunciation.	Needs a lot of prompting from the interviewer to speak or elaborate on their answers, not responding or not comprehending.	Rambles on without clarifying details, ideas are not always immediately obvious, generally does not express more complex logical relationships.
